APGFL helps members face challenges, accomplish goals, and achieve dreams.

APGers in Florida meet in your neighborhood

The Florida Chapter of APG... it's where Sunshine State professional genealogists now meet. From newcomers to seasoned pros, our members regularly get together at regional and statewide chapter meetings and programs.

Our program chairs in North, Central, and South Florida arrange gatherings near members' homes. They range from networking sessions to lectures and workshops. Our annual statewide meeting is held in the fall in the central part of the state at the Florida State Genealogical Society's Annual Conference.

To get these benefits, you must be an APG member (sign up at apgen.org) and join the Florida Chapter by completing and mailing our online application or the form on the next panel.

Who are professional genealogists, the APG, and its Florida Chapter?

Professional genealogists possess the expertise and training to do professional-type work for hire or themselves.

They may be researchers, writers, lecturers, librarians, family historians, enthusiasts, or others in fields related to family history. They learn their job in genealogy through individual study, lectures, and classes. Many become certified or accredited by passing stringent, periodic competency evaluations.

The Association of Professional Genealogists (APG), established in 1979, is the leading worldwide professional organization of practicing genealogists and others competent in the field. APG's more than 1,400 members agree to abide by a code of professional ethics. Its website is apgen.org.

"The Florida Chapter helps me find genealogical professionals on the spot where I need them." — A professional genealogist in North America

The Florida Chapter (APGFL) was established in 2004 as APG's 21st chapter by a group of Florida members. A Florida nonprofit corporation, the chapter's mission is to support members, promote high professional standards, educate the public in family history, and help preserve access to historic records in the state. Its website (apgflorida.org) includes news, meeting announcements, directories of members and officers, and bylaws.
