

Association of Professional Genealogists Announces Appointment of Julie Cahill Tarr as Managing Editor of Quarterly Journal

WHEAT RIDGE, Colo., 17 August 2022 —The Association of Professional Genealogists (APG) is pleased to name Julie Cahill Tarr of Twin Lakes, Wisconsin, as the new Managing Editor of the Association of Professional Genealogists Quarterly (APGQ).

An experienced editor, Julie has served in the past as managing editor of the Federation of Genealogical Societies' FORUM magazine (2015-20), editor of the Illinois State Genealogical Society Quarterly, and editor of the APG eNews. "I'm thrilled to be part of the team that produces a high-quality publication for those interested in genealogy as a profession," said Julie.

A former member of APG's Board of Directors (2019-20), Julie is also a genealogist specializing in Midwestern US families with immigrant origins. Her Genealogy In Action brand genealogyinaction.com provides action-based educational opportunities to help others gain knowledge through practical learning.

APGQ is the go-to publication for the association, packed with articles relevant to professionals within the genealogy community, as well as those interested in becoming professionals. APG members and subscribers can access issues of APGQ at apgen.org, where they will also find an archive of past issues dating back to 1979 and a browsable subject index.
